PRESS RELEASE: Finding light in the darkness – A personal Journey from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday

Jesuit Communications, publisher of Madonna magazine and its online partner pray.com.au has released a personal journey for people interested in exploring a deeper relationship with Jesus during Lent.

Our guest writer introduces the series of meditations:

'In recent months, my shaky faith has been once again. For one thing, it is getting difficult to find Jesus in the culture of my Church – I wish it were not so – though I can still glimpse Jesus in the goodness of the faithful.

'For another thing, a loved one, a parent in a young family, has been diagnosed with an aggressive illness for which there is no cure. My Lenten journey starts in this darkness, with the smallest glimmer of hope.'

The series allows people to take their own personal journey with Jesus. It speaks particularly to people who are struggling, and raises questions that people often ask of God in difficult times: Why do bad things happen? Why do people suffer? Where is justice to be found?

In the shadows of the many challenges facing our world, these reflections offer a pathway, allowing people to take their worries and fears directly to God, praying on them in the light of Jesus' own journey to Calvary at Easter.

The Lenten Journey is available free.
