

CATHOLIC BISHOPS CONGRATULATE NEW QUEENSLAND GOVERNMENT

Queensland's Catholic Bishops congratulate the Liberal National Party on their electoral success and David Crisafulli on his election Premier. We wish them well in all that lies ahead.

As leaders of the Catholic community, we look forward to working with the new government to serve the common good of all Queenslanders.

On behalf of the Catholic community across the State, we also thank the outgoing government and its leader Steven Miles for their service to the State.

Since the founding of Queensland in 1859, Church and State have partnered to serve the entire community, especially the vulnerable.

Today it is more important than ever for the Church and the State government work together in a spirit of mutual respect in order to address the pressing issues facing our communities both urban and rural.

There is much for the government to do, but no government can do everything. That is why genuine collaboration with grassroots communities like the Church is not just preferable but essential.
