Catholic School Parents Australia Welcomes Minister Jason Clare's Reappointment and Looks Forward to Continued Dialogue on Family Engagement in Learning

Catholic School Parents Australia (CSPA) warmly congratulates Minister Jason Clare on his reappointment as Federal Minister for Education. His continued leadership provides stability and an opportunity to build upon the important work already underway in Australian education.

As the national voice for parents of children in Catholic schools, CSPA acknowledges the Albanese Government's ongoing commitment to ensuring every child has access to high-quality education, regardless of background or location.

CSPA is encouraged by the government's commitment to maintaining existing funding arrangements for non-government schools and its inclusion of Catholic education in key initiatives such as the Better and Fairer Schools Agreement, the Building the Early Education Fund, and student wellbeing programs. These initiatives are crucial in ensuring that parents who chose a Catholic education for their children continue to access equitable opportunities and resources.

Importantly, we remain hopeful that the conversation around family engagement in learning will continue to be a priority. Families play a fundamental role in their children's education, and meaningful collaboration between families, schools, and policymakers is essential to fostering student success. We look forward to working with Minister Clare and the government to strengthen initiatives that empower parents as active and positive partners in their children's learning journey.

CSPA is eager to continue discussions on key priorities, including teacher workforce sustainability, quality teaching, absenteeism and school refusal and addressing cost-of-living pressures on families. We are confident that Minister Clare's leadership will help drive positive outcomes for all students and their families.

Once again, we congratulate Minister Clare on his reappointment and look forward to a productive partnership that ensures the best possible educational experience for all Australian children.
