

A New Chapter Begins as First Students Step onto St Paul's Junior Campus, Balgowlah

Today marks a historic moment for St Paul's Catholic College, as the first students officially begin learning at the new St Paul's Junior Campus in Balgowlah.

Welcoming its inaugural cohort of Years 5 and 6 students, the campus bridges primary and secondary education while fostering confidence, independence, and a strong sense of belonging from day one.

The campus brings together skilled stage 3 teachers, specialist staff, and tailored learning spaces to support students as they take this significant step in their schooling journey.

Luke Moxon, Head of the Junior School Campus said the first day represents far more than the opening of new buildings.

"Today is about our students - watching them walk through the gates with excitement, curiosity and confidence. This campus is about giving our students the very best start to this next chapter and helping them grow in independence.

Director of Schools, Danny Casey, said the first day at the Junior Campus is a powerful example of our strategy coming to life.

"This is what Shaping Tomorrow, Together in Faith looks like in action. Today is about setting students up for success at a pivotal time in their learning, so they feel confident, capable and ready for what comes next."

St Paul's Catholic College is a multi campus, coeducational Years 5–12 Catholic school and a faith-filled, vibrant learning community where every student is known, valued and encouraged to thrive.

The opening of St Paul's Junior Campus strengthens a connected learning journey for families on the Northern Beaches - offering continuity, belonging and a clear pathway through the middle years into secondary schooling. The Junior Campus strengthens the College's commitment to nurturing confident learners who are well prepared for the transition into secondary schooling and beyond.
